JAECKIN

The Hero of the Erotic years

With this exhibition, the Dumas+Limbach galleries pay tribute to one of the most complete artists of his generation.

World-famous for his productions of Emmanuel, Gwendoline and Madame Claude, Jaeckin has established himself as a hedonistic filmmaker. But this precursor of erotic film was first and foremost a lover of photography. Over the years, this passion has never left him.

Through his art, Just Jaeckin has never ceased to declare his love for women and their beauty. Always subtle, he was able to reveal the passion, grace and sensuality of those crazy years.

Also a sculptor, he opened a gallery in Paris, then in Saint Briac in Brittany, where he exhibited his latest creations alongside his wife and daughter, also artists.

In 2022, Jaeckin passed away at the age of 82, leaving behind him the memory of unequalled artistic sensuality.

JUST JAECKIN

Just Jaeckin, a versatile and multi-talented man, was born in Vichy on August 8, 1940. It was in 1958, during his military service in Algeria, that he discovered photography. He then worked as a reporter. On his return to France, he decided to pursue this activity as a self-taught photographer, collaborating with prestigious fashion magazines such as Elle, Marie Claire and Vogue. For almost seven years, he was busy capturing the most illustrious personalities of the 1970s. Serge Gainsbourg, Brigitte Bardot, Jane Fonda and Sylvia Kristel (the divine muse who played the role of Emmanuelle), to mention only a few. A veritable ode to beauty and glamour, Jackin's universe is embodied in the sensuality of black and white photography, as captivating as the piercing gazes of his models. Jaeckin sketches a graphic man, a director of images, considered a disrupter of consciences, an agitator of morals. He proclaims an "aesthetic beauty", where women can finally embody themselves through a free and uninhibited sexuality.
